

Before taking away right of person, a person is required to be confronted with charges levelled against him

There is no rationale indicting petitioner, for, it was not unilateral decision of the petitioner but under the direction of the senior officer – Before taking away right of person, a person is required to be confronted with charges levelled against him – Even enquiry was conducted at the back of petitioner but was never handed over any charge-sheet – Adverse inference liable to be withdrawn.

\(2021-1\)201 PLR 708 = 2021 PLRonline 008