

Pleadings – The real point is not the stray or loose expressions which abound in in-artistically drafted complaints, but the real substance of the case gathered by construing pleadings as a whole – It is said “Parties do not have the far-sight of prophets and their lawyers the draftsmanship of a chalmers” – In order to determine the precise nature of the action, the pleadings should be taken as a whole.

2019 PLRonline 3028

Bismillah v. Janeshwar Prasad , 2019 PLRonline 3028 , (1990) 1 SCC 207 , AIR 1990 SC 540