

Constitution of India, Articles 14, 19 and 21 - Prisoners are human beings despite their liberty having been curtailed - They may not enjoy all rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution of India, yet, basic rights and liberties are available to them which are the rights guaranteed by Articles 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India - Court process restricts the liberty of prisoners but the same courts also have the duty to monitor that the liberty is not restricted beyond the bounds of law.

2021-3 Punjab Law Reporter 242